

Full Stack Developer

Responsibilities

- Participate in full life-cycle web development
- Work with product line leaders and architects to develop multi generation software technology plans aligned to product requirements and business strategy
- Drive increased efficiency across the teams, eliminating duplication, leveraging product and technology reuse
- Support process improvements which guide the development, sustaining & support activities
- Develop high performing, enterprise scale, innovative end-to-end web applications
- Collaborate with system engineers and backend developers to design, build, and implement core platforms and solutions
- Write code that meets standards and delivers desired functionality using the core tech stack selected for the desired products
- Build new key features for the product portfolio, leveraging existing standard frameworks for the ecosystem
- Create and maintain technical documentation wherever applicable
- Adhering to the Information Security Management System guidelines & policies as set by iSteer

Qualifications

- 3 to 5 year's professional experience in Software Development
- Proficiency in Front-end Coding and Design (Java Spring Boot and libraries or frameworks such as Angular, Backbone)
- Skilled in breaking down problems, documenting problem statements and estimating efforts
- Demonstrates awareness about competitors and industry trends
- Good knowledge and understanding of the Information Security Management system

Preferred Skills and Education:

- Bachelor's degree in Computer Science or related field iSteer US Corporation is an Equal Opportunity Employer Minority/Female/Disability/Veteran. If you require accessibility assistance applying for open positions in the US, please send an email with your request to Careers@isteer.com